Advanced BioFuels Association Launches New Online Series Spotlighting Top Industry News in Washington

WASHINGTON (05|26|2010) – The Advanced BioFuels Association launched a new online video series today. The Clean Fuels Forecast spotlights the top public policy issues and maneuvering in Washington affecting the advanced biofuels industry.

In its first episode, now posted on the ABFA YouTube page, <http://www.youtube.com/user/AdvancedBiofuels>, ABFA President Michael McAdams discusses the current tax incentive packages before Congress and their importance to bolstering the advanced biofuels industry and commercializing the innovative and renewable technologies.

The member companies of The Advanced BioFuels Association represent the new generation of advanced and renewable technologies that will help drive America's new economy and fuel a sustainable future for the world.
